THE CREAMERY BUSINESS.

How Capital May be Invested Here.

Yesterday the Editor of the Ap-PEAL had a talk with Homer Wilson. He is a practical cattle raiser and creamery man. Speaking of Nevada as a place especially adapted to butter making he said.

"You have the finest natural facilities in the world for creameries, The only drawbacks come from the people here. In the first place most of the ranchers do not understand practical butter making. Some do not know the dividing line between the money-making and money-losing side of the ledger.

"They have a herd of cows and the milk is all mixed together. They know how much they get from a herd, but if asked how much milk or butter an individual cow gives they do not know. They do not keep track of the yield either in milk or butter of individual cows. If they did they would soon begin to weed out their poor milkers and beef

"There is no sense in feeding a cow whose milk yield in a year is less than the cost of keeping her. The quicker such a cow is killed for beef the better.

"Again, a cow will give apparently a good quantity of milk and a test of her milk will show that she is almost useless as a butter maker. Now what is the sense of keeping such a cow and breeding calves from her. She is a dead loss. The dairymen should get pure blooded bulls and breed up their herds, improve the stock and aim to have the best strains of cattle they can get. Thoroughbred Folsteins crossed with cows that lav Shorthorn blood in them is the bes cross I know of. You can't go astray with that cross for dairy purposes. "Just now Nevada is getting a big boom among dairymen and a good are looking to investments in this State, Land is too high in California for grazing purposes. They can rent their lands at good figures there and invest to great advantage here. Now I think I am right when I say that there is a disposition in this State to pile on the price when a Californian comes to invest. This is a big mistake. These men know just what they are doing and if you day. try to press them with big prices you lose their investments.

"Let the advance guard get headed this way and then California capital will flow in and good prices will be easily obtainable. In a few years it will send everything up. Mark my pays in the long run. If you drive would be investors away, it will kill this country for some time.

cliques and factions and if a man tries to invest with one crowd the other faction tries to break up the sale. It's time to quit these petty jealousies and get down to business. There is plenty of capital in California ready for Nevada investments if it can get fair treatment here, and if you people are ready to talk business and do business.

"I know of a case recently when a Of Empire announces himself as man came here with plenty of capital. He was about to make a purchase and the price was named. When he was already to pay his cash the vote of the Silver Primaries. down they raised the price thinking they had a dead thing. He at once returned to California and the bargain is off. He had quite a number of friends with money who would have followed him with investments. Well they have all decided to keep away from Nevada, We ought to be able by judicious management to keep every man who comes here to look for investments.

"Let us elevate our minds to the contemplation of our higher duties in this matter and work togather as men. We need a broder current of generosity in our makeup. If we expect to become a State rich and prosperous, as we can if we will; we must widen our reason beyond the few dollars we can reap of those who may come among us to make their homes, until we can see by the proper treatment of these people our valleys settled with a thrifty people, beautiful homes and prosperous communities where now grows the cheerless sagebrush."

It might be a good idea for . C. Cleveland, D. L. Bliss, and H. M. Yerington to hire a buckboard and free coinage.

THE ENCAMPMENT CLOSES,

The Last Day Devoted to Smoke and Fire.

Yesterday was the closing day of the great military encampment.

There was a great deal of gumpowder and noise in the forencon on the programme and the boys were all eager to do things up brown for the wind up.

The ladies were also full of military enthusiasm and a great desire to parade themselves in their most fashionable attire. Some of the costumes were very stunning and seemed to effect the volunteers in a greater or less degree. A military encampment is about equal to Easter Sunday with some of the Carson fair sex. There were quite a number of beauties from Reno and the Comstock, but it was conceded that they didn't average up with the Capitol belle.

When the time came to open the battle the Washoe skirmishers went to the front and opened fire on the enemy. The fight grew very lively and it was decided to send reinforce-

The Comstock squadron went in on the run and sent volley after volley into the foe.

It was the opinion of the Commander that the line was wavering and the old reliable Carson Guard was called on, not a man faltered and at the word charge they went into the fight with a battle cry that could be heard at Lakeview. Even then the iss s of the day was in doubt until olon: Lord's battery came into the acti a and opened fire. For a few Diqutes the cracking of the musketry and the roar of the cannons shock the earth. The fight was kept up in red hot style until nearly noon when it was decided that the enemy had retreated and left the gory field in full charge of the Nevada militia, Nearly all the small boys of the county took part in the great battle, at times they seemed to outnumber the soldiers.

In the afternoon the Governor and Staff reviewed the troops and it was everywhere conceded that the men drilled splendidly, and the encampment had been a success.

There was a full dress parade at 6:15 in the evening. The boys will break camp and leave for home to-

Twenty Toes.

A squaw in town has a lusty little pappoose which is fitted out with twenty plump toes-ten on each foot. The extra toes are on the heels and are as well developed as those in word this is the true principle and front. The ankles are set in the middle of the foot, to give the hind toes a chance to sprout. The great disadvantage about the freak is that "People here seem to be cut up in the mother can't always tell whether it is going away or coming home, as it appears to be traveling both ways at once. - Homer Index.
